Editor's Private War Against the Sparrow

In my backyard are half a dozen families of cardinals whom I aid with feeder-loads of sunflower seed or peanuts.

When furnishing peanuts I sustained heavy losses from thieving blue jays who at times actually outnumbered the redbirds. I switched to sunflower seed, and found new trouble: English sparrows—hundreds of them. Sparrows can't handle unshelled peanuts, but they'll strip a feeder of sunflower seed in a couple of hours.

Faced with the same problem three or four years ago I got from Jerry O'Neal the address of a manufacturer of sparrow traps, and bought two of them. They had been out in the weather ever since, but after a few adjustments in the mechanical apparatus (a wire elevator that descends under the weight of a bird to the trap's cage) I found both of them were in working order.

When I first bought the traps I killed 183 sparrows, much to the disgust of my friend Mrs. Justine Hamm, local Audubon Society founder. She held out for the preservation of a certain white-throated sparrow who is a singer. I said I would be on the lookout for this rascal.

Last Saturday and Sunday the traps caught 47 sparrows. Then business came to an abrupt halt.

Tuesday morning one of the traps captured a blue jay, and I released him. Tuesday afternoon the same bird, apparently, was back in the same trap, and again I released him.

For this I will get no thanks from either Mrs. Hamm or Mrs. Irene Dodson (Herbert's wife). They are death on the blue jay—bully, robber, cutthroat. Mrs. Hamm tells me the blue jay kills the young of songsters. I didn't know this at the time I released my one stupid jay. Nevertheless, my war is against sparrows—nothing else.

Thursday morning the traps again were inactive, except for a single adult cardinal. I released him, of course—and I'll be a surprised editor if he ever returns to my screen-wire jail.

By coincidence, just as I began typing this piece Thursday Mrs. Hamm walked into the office and handed me a note. She wrote:

"Here is a dog story and I do hope you can help me out. I have an Orphan Annie. Her people deserted her; so I am boarding Annie plus her three adorable children. If you can picture a long-haired beagle you get her image.

"I can not bear the thought of sending them to the pound. It means a fatal end. Really, you should have Annie. Roger (the ed's boxer) would like her. In the words of the poet: 'Her voice was sweet and low, an excellent thing in woman.' 'How nice it would be if this story could end: 'They all lived happily ever after.' 'Can you help me find a home for my canines. Sincerely yours, JUSTINE HAMM."

I asked Roger-the-boxer about this. He said "yes," but I said "No." I already have 13 geese and a dog—and I'm not about to buy additional acreage.

But the mixed-beagle family is appealing. If interested, call on Mrs. Justine Hamm, 306 E. Ave. B.

Heaviest bombing of war fails to stop N. Vietnamese attack

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces launched new attacks on South Vietnam's northern defense lines today despite the heaviest B52 U.S. bombing of the Vietnam war.

The South Vietnamese command said 99 North Vietnamese were killed and one tank was destroyed in three fights between dawn and noon, while South Vietnamese losses were five killed and 22 wounded.

A hundred B52s dropped 2,500 tons of bombs across the northern front today.

Informants said the strikes were aimed at cutting off North Vietnamese troops and supplies. They also noted they could be setting the stage for a new South Vietnamese spoiling operation westward from Hue toward the A Shau Valley, a major North Vietnamese base camp and staging area near the Laotian border.

The informants called attention to President Nguyen Van Thieu's statement Monday that he had ordered a three-month campaign to retake the territory lost in the North Vietnamese offensive.

Interest on loans going up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interest rates on home loans are going up again, the government announced today.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board disclosed that interest rates on conventional mortgage loans climbed slightly in May after six months of decline.

Some economists have predicted that home-loan interest rates should start to go up again as the demand for loans increases with the present housing boom.

The board, however, attempted to play down the May rise. "One month is too short a time to establish a trend," said board Chairman Preston Martin.

Interest in bank sold

A Hope native recently acquired an interest in the Bank of Prescott, it was announced today.

John W. Brannan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brannan of Hope, was elected president and chief executive officer of the Nevada County financial institution yesterday. He is a former senior vice president of the Commercial National Bank of Little Rock.

In a telephone interview this afternoon, Brannan said he anticipates no changes in managerial positions. State Sen. Olen Hendrix will continue as chairman of the board, it was announced.

and supply caches along the My Chanh River defense line north of Hue and through the foothills and mountains stretching west of the old imperial capital.

The South Vietnamese command reported that 126 North Vietnamese troops were killed and 13 tanks destroyed Thursday at My Chanh, 20 to 25 miles north of Hue, and on the western flank 12 miles from Hue.

The communique reported one South Vietnamese soldier killed and 16 wounded, but field reports said nine were killed and 62 wounded.

On the southern front, reinforcements were rushed in as fighting continued this morning in a village 55 miles northwest of Saigon. A total of 85 North Vietnamese were reported killed in the battle in Suo Da hamlet since fighting broke out Thursday. Field reports said eight government militiamen defending the hamlet were killed and 41 wounded.

In the central highlands, South Vietnamese forces trying to reopen Highway 14 between Pleiku and Kontum battled more than 100 North Vietnamese troops 500 yards south of the Chu Pao mountain pass. The Saigon command claimed 34 North Vietnamese killed. Five government troops were reported killed and 23 wounded.

North Vietnam claimed it shot down four U.S. F4 Phantoms during raids Thursday over the North. The U.S. Command said it had no plane losses to report over North Vietnam, but announcement of losses by the U.S. Command often is delayed because the search for downed fliers is still under way.

Devaluation of pound 'wounds' dollar

LONDON (AP) — The British government set the pound sterling free today to find a new rate of exchange without government support. The surprise action plunged European money markets into confusion, started a run on the U.S. dollar and jumped the price of gold more than $2 an ounce.

The British Treasury closed the London foreign exchange market until Tuesday. The Common Market governments closed their exchanges, at least for today. But before the Frankfurt market 79 down, the dollar plummeted to its floor of 3.15 marks.

Markets were open in Switzerland, and the dollar made a sharp drop in Zurich to 3.72-3.74 Swiss francs.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing announced that the governors of the central banks of the six Common Market nations will meet in Paris Saturday.

The price of gold was pegged in London at $64 an ounce, up from $61.85 at Thursday's closing. In Zurich gold reached $64.45, up from $61.75.

The British Treasury said the floating of the pound was a temporary measure. Its purpose was to check a run on the pound, which has been beset by rumors that it would be devalued.

The London Stock Exchange took the news calmly. Prices moved up on international issues, a traditional hedge against devaluation, but otherwise trading was quiet.

Market sources in Frankfurt said the drop in the dollar there, from 3.1920 at the closing Thursday to 3.15, was "nearly normal." They said the dollar had risen in the last few days only because of the weakness of the pound, and now this "artificial support" had been removed.

The sources said the West German central bank bought between $500 million and $1 billion to support the dollar at 3.15 the level at which the current exchange agreement requires a government to buy to keep the price from falling lower.

The pound was last devalued in November 1967. Its par value has been $2.60571 since the Smithsonian Agreement last year that devalued the dollar, and the government has been committed to keeping the rate within 2 1/2 per cent of that figure by buying or selling pounds.

The rate stayed for months this year around par, but the selling wave this week drove it as low as $2.5625 despite heavy purchases by the Bank of England and central banks on the Continent. It closed Thursday on the London market at $2.5750.

With the London foreign exchange market closed, there was no immediate indication to what level the pound would fall. But the Economist, a leading British weekly, speculated in an article published today before the pound was set free that if it were devalued to $2.40 it would start moving upward.

The exchange rate of the pound was cut in 1967 from $2.80 to $2.40. Last August, when the U.S. dollar and other world currencies began to float as a result of President Nixon's measures, the pound wedged up to $2.50.

Artillery blasts Israeli border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rocket and artillery fire reverberated across the border between Israel and Lebanon again during the night, and each government accused the other of shooting first.

Beirut charged that Israeli artillery shelled two villages in southeast and south-central Lebanon with an intense 2 1/2-hour barrage. The Lebanese army said one woman was killed and another seriously injured in Lebanon, seven miles from the border. Majdal Islun, five miles from the border, came under fire for 20 minutes, the communique said, and several houses in both villages were damaged.

The Israeli military command in Lebanon, fired Katyusha rockets at the northern border town of Kfar Shmouha, a short distance from Majdal Islun. The Israelis said nobody was hurt, and they returned the fire.

The Israeli command also said gunners in Syria shelled Israeli army positions on the Golan Heights.

The Lebanese communique said the attack on its villages was preceded by a 35-minute overflight of Israeli Skyhawks.

Lebanese Foreign Minister Khalil Babu Hamad called in the ambassadors from the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and China and delivered a written protest against an Israeli raid Wednesday on a Lebanese village.

Is mugged

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of the U.N. committee which deals with the safety of diplomats in New York City was mugged and robbed in Central Park with his wife.

Police said Thursday that three men looped ropes around the necks of Cyprus 77-year-old ambassador to the United Nations, Zenon G. Rossides, and his wife on Wednesday night.

Across-the-board SS hike approval is prophesied

By JOE HALL

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-per-cent across-the-board increase in Social Security benefits appears headed for congressional approval by the end of next week.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chief sponsor of the move in the Senate, reported that he discussed his plan with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and received a sympathetic hearing.

Mills' position is important because Church hopes to add the increase as a committee rider on a debt-limit bill and Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, would have to agree to such an amendment to assure quick approval by the House.

The debt-limit bill has been chosen as the vehicle for the rider because it is an administration measure which President Nixon must sign into law by next Friday.

The Social Security hike first was tacked onto the mammoth Social Security-welfare bill passed by the House last year and approved by the Senate Finance Committee last week.

But lengthy debate on the welfare-reform sections covering families with dependent children probably will delay final action until September.

Democratic leaders are pushing to enact the 20-per-cent boost at once so it can be reflected in the monthly checks of 27 million Social Security recipients before the national elections Nov. 7.

It takes about three months after passage for an increase to show up in the checks.

The House is to act on the debt-limit bill early next week. Mills is said to have agreed to push it through as early in the week as possible so the Senate will have more time to consider it.

Church claims 64 backers for his 20-per-cent amendment, almost two-thirds of the Senate.

If the amendment is adopted, the bill must go back to the House for action on the Senate change.

Mills originally favored a 5-per-cent Social Security increase, the figure recommended by Nixon, but later changed his mind and announced his support for 20 per cent.

Church's amendment would make the boost retroactive to June 1 this year.

It also would include a cost-of-living increase guaranteeing that, whenever the price index rises 3 per cent or more, Social Security benefits automatically would go up by the same amount.

It was learned that Church and Mills have agreed tentatively that the measure would be financed through increases in the wage base, the amount of annual earnings subject to tax.

IN EUROPE—Terri Becherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Becherer of Hope, left June 13 for Aberdeen, Maryland to join 42 former classmates of Aberdeen High School for a tour of Europe. Mrs. Charles Sellman, chairman of the French department of Aberdeen Senior High School is the sponsor and co-ordinator of this trip. The students will stay with different families under the student exchange program. They will visit several cities in France, including Paris, then tour Spain, England and Switzerland before returning home.

Senate is expected to join House on revenue-sharing

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to join the House in approving the sharing of some $30 billion with the states and local governments over the next five years. But Senate action may have to wait until after the political conventions.

The revenue-sharing measure swept through the House on a 274-122 vote Thursday after defeat of an attempt to delay the effective date six months.

As passed by the House, the program is retroactive to last Jan. 1. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., tried to set a July 1 date, saying that would save $2.7 billion, but was defeated 241 to 157.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee said he will begin hearings next week on the measure. However, it is unlikely the hearings will be completed before Congress recesses for the July 10 Democratic convention. And, the measure may not be ready for full Senate consideration until after the Republican convention in August.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan hailed the House action as a triumph for President Nixon, whose revenue-sharing plan was vetoed by the House.

the Senate does not pass legislation this year, it will derelict in its duty," Ford said.

Long said he expects favorable action.

The bill would provide $1.8 billion of federal funds for states and $3.5 billion for cities and other local governments this year.

The program would continue for five years, but proponents and opponents alike predicted it will be re-enacted. After the first year, the state share could be increased by up to $300 million a year.

Grants announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than $250,000 in grants to Arkansas were announced Thursday by the office of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark.

They were: —$40,000 from the National Science Foundation and Environmental Protection Agency to the University of Arkansas for a study of soybean ecological systems.

—$125,000 from the two agencies to the university for a general study of cotton.

—$19,500 by the EPA to Yellville for construction of a waste treatment facility, bringing to $236,380 the total financial assistance to Yellville.

—$18,000 by the Health, Education and Welfare Department to the Department of Education to develop television programs.

—$47,750 by HEW to the Department of Education for training inservice educational personnel.

New agency approved to replace FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new independent agency responsible for ensuring the safety and efficiency of food, drugs and other products has been approved by the Senate to replace the Food and Drug Administration.

The bill—for the first time in consumer legislation—provides criminal penalties for the manufacture and sale of unsafe products.

It would establish a new Food, Drug and Consumer Product Agency which would incorporate all existing consumer-safety programs. Among its powers would be authority to remove unsafe products from shelves and ban the manufacture of those found to pose unreasonable risk of injury or death.

The bill now goes to the House where its fate is uncertain. The Nixon administration opposes key provisions.

The legislation provides for citizen petition and class-action suits, and gives the agency power to act on its own against suspected violators, instead of going through the Justice Department.

Native of Prescott retiring

Brad Scott a native of Prescott, chief of administrative management division, of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Little Rock, is retiring June 30, after more than 40 years of federal service.

Prior to coming to the VA his federal service included tours with the Agriculture Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service. Scott is a graduate of the University of Arkansas. While a student at the University of Arkansas, he played on the freshman team and the Razorback varsity team in 1924, 1925, and 1926; he was captain of the 1925 Hogs and named to the All-Southwest Conference Team in 1926.

Upon retirement, Scott plans to devote a great deal of his time to the Razorbacks and the Razorback Letterman Club, in addition to traveling and other hobbies, including the Sight Conservation Program of the Downtown Lions Club, of which he is a member.

Scott is married to the former Rachel Gordon, also a native of Prescott, and they have two daughters, Mrs. James G.
Manville of St. Louis, Mo., and
Mrs. Allen W. Parse of Corpus Christi.

VEE alert is sounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has sounded a seasonal alert for equine encephalomyelitis, sleeping sickness of horses.

The department urged owners throughout the country to vaccinate their horses, ponies, mules and burros for the three types of encephalomyelitis present in the United States.

It said Mexico already has reported three outbreaks of the deadly Venezuelan equine en-cephalomyelitis (VEE) this year. The outbreaks show a northward progression with the latest located in the state of Durango, about 650 miles from the Texas border.

The department said effective vaccines are available to immunize horses against the three horse sleeping sicknesses found in this country: VEE plus Eastern and Western equine en-cephalomyelitis (EEE and WEE).

All three diseases are transmitted to horses by mosquitoes.

A serious VEE outbreak occurred in this country in 1971, and another outbreak is feared this year.

TOPS CLUB MEETS

"Will Power and You" was the program at the meeting of the Arkansas TOPS Club No. 94 on Monday, June 19 at the Douglas Building. Carolyn Ross gave a timely talk on this topic after Linda Bell had led in the opening song and pledge and Margaret Polk had read the minutes of the last meeting.

The Ha-Ha Box went to Nina Anthony, and the 24 in attendance included two new members, Jo Ann Pine and Melba Bain. A unique phase of the meeting occurred when Margaret Polk, Doris Walden and Mae Collins modeled dresses they had worn before they had lost weight.

Anyone interested in losing weight is invited to a meeting of the TOPS Club any Monday night at 7 p.m. in the Douglas Building.

Miss Ramsey weds

Miss Sharon Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn J. Ramsey of Manila, became the bride of 2nd Lt. Dwight Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Galloway and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ben L. Robinson of Hope.

The couple graduated from A.S.U. on May 12. The bride received her BSE in art and was a member of the Kappa Delta Sorority. Mr. Galloway received his degree in accounting and was commissioned as an officer on the same day. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

The ceremony took place on May 13 in the First Methodist Church of Manila. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length condeight gown of organza over peau de soie. Her gown was empire-fashioned with bouffant bishop sleeves. She carried a bouquet of assorted spring flowers. Her four attendants wore formal length dresses of different pastel colors. These colors were repeated in the ribbons flowing from the garden hats.

The groom and his attendants wore military dress blue uniforms. Richard Sallee served his cousin as best man. Joey Galloway, brother of the groom, lit the candles. The ring bearer and flower girl were nephew and niece of the bride. Mrs. Johnny McMurry presided at the guest book.

A reception was held in the educational building immediately following the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake was cut with the traditional military sword. After a short honeymoon the couple is living near Ft. Hood, Texas where the groom has reported for duty.

Boyling it down

By WES COOK

Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) —

"Mom, don't worry about the sharks, I don't. The moray eels really scare me though."

That's how the letters began. The writer was our son, Bob, whose interest is marine biology. He wanted experience and the chance to follow his interests "where the action is."

So he bought a used laundry truck and converted it to a mobile home—of sorts—and four days after his 21st birthday he set off for Marineland of Florida, the nation's pioneer oceanarium about 15-miles south of St. Augustine.

Two weeks after his arrival he was given a tryout as a "hard-hat diver," feeding and working under 12 to 20 feet of water with some of the nearly 3,000 specimens of marine life on exhibit.

Opened in 1938, Marineland is dedicated to study and research in marine biology. It also offers the public a unique experience in its educational and entertaining exhibits.

Bob wrote: "The first few weeks I was upset about the nurse sharks, which are like hungry puppy dogs crowding to get food. Everyone said they were harmless, but my mind said that anything that could swallow a 10-inch fish whole could also do a good job on my hand."

Other letters that followed contained these gems to quiet parental concern: "Work isn't going bad at all. I don't mind getting bit. It's my fault anyway if I do..."

"I walked a shark today, about a 7-footer. It had been caught at sea by the collecting ship and was exhausted. You have to 'walk' them in the water, a sort of artificial respiration to force oxygen-bearing water through their gills until they revive..."

"I've been nipped by nurse sharks, tugged on by huge sea turtles and climbed over by morays, but those porpises have pushed, pulled, and knocked me down and bitten me and I still like them best. I have been bitten so many times this week that I feel like a pin cushion..."

Proudly he wrote: "I was paid a compliment by the announcer. He said that Wayne Birkett, the head diver, stated that 'Bob is the best diver he has had in quite a few years. In less than a month he has learned all of the jobs that the senior divers do. He moves exceptionally well in the water and seems natural.'"

Despite our concern about the unknown—at least for us—that he walks with daily in those tanks, we were happy and proud of his attitude when he wrote recently:

"I don't plan on doing this (diving) the rest of my life, but I know that I'll be able to look back on it someday and know that the reason I did my job so well was because I enjoyed it."

HE'LL PAY THIS ONE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — When Gary Long, 24, of Little Rock went to court Thursday contesting a parking ticket which alleged that his car was parked four hours in a two-hour zone, it ended in a draw.

The judge upheld Long's position on the ticket, but when he returned to his car to leave the Police and Courts Building, another ticket for overparking was on his vehicle—written by the officer who had issued the earlier one.

"I'll pay," Long smiled

Readers Answer the Mail

DEAR READERS:

The two letters which brought most response recently were those written by "Angry at Selfish Women's Libbers" and "Afraid to Chance It"—asking if there was any hope for marriage, and if so what.

Here are some of the better answers:

DEAR HELEN:

The person who signed herself "Angry at Selfish Women's Libbers" wondered why these women added another problem when the world already has more than its share to solve. The answer should be obvious to anyone who is aware of the power structure of our society.

The average person has next to no power alone or in small groups—whether they work for better social services, housing, waste disposal or peace. This, because those in power structure of our society.

The average person has next to no power alone or in small groups—whether they work for better social services, housing, waste disposal or peace. This, because those in power structure of our society.

While women are in the majority numerically, they are almost non-existent when it comes to power or policy-making. Therefore their voices at present are pretty weak.

I don't think our society will be magically transformed into an idealistic Utopia once women are proportionately represented. However, I do believe that women have tended to be more cognizant of human values than have men. I certainly think they would do no worse, and that their basic human rights are being violated by exclusion from these positions.

Women have ever been in the forefront of the fights for the handicapped, better health care, conservation, peace and human rights. That their impact has been so small in relation to the overwhelming problems they face is, in my opinion, due to their "second class citizen" rating. Until women's liberation lets them realize their power, they can't adequately help solve those other world problems. —MS. E.B.N.

DEAR HELEN:

First women wanted the vote, and they got it. Now we want to be voted FOR, because we are NEEDED in politics. If it's "selfish" to work for our rightful place in society so that we can help to better society, then I am a —SELFISH WOMEN'S LIBBER

DEAR HELEN:

"Afraid to Chance It" asks for a formula for success in marriage. I believe formulas for success in any area of life are unobtainable. They are as personal and individual as fingerprints. Otherwise where the stimulus for the imagination or the challenges?

But if "love" is the key to marriage, then I feel selfishness is the key to divorce! And these modern "non-marriages," "week-end marriages," "group marriages," etc. have an air of selfishness about them. It's more "What's in it for me?" than "What can I offer?" I've enjoyed 11 years of awareness of my mate's complete fulfillment, as well as my own, but I know my license doesn't carry a guarantee. We both use a lot of TLC to keep the motor running! —TIED IT AND LIKE IT

DEAR HELEN:

In our modern, two-career marriage, we're friends and equals as well as lovers. We share the house work, the raising of our children. We discuss our jobs, the home, the world and our kids with equal vigor—and the children join in. We have mutual respect for one another, and few jealousies. Our "freedom" holds us together.

My husband knows about the other men in my life. We told each other most of our so-called secrets before we were married—this is part of our honesty, and we haven't mentioned them since.

Is my husband embarrassed when friends find him mopping the kitchen? No more than I am embarrassed when they see me putting up the storm windows or waxing his car. This isn't a "his-hers" household—but "OURS"—HAPPY MODERN DEAR HELEN:

The formula for a successful marriage is—THE LOVE TRIANGLE (not Wreck-tangle). The third party, at the top of the triangle, is God.

There are three critical stages in the marriage relationship when divorce is likely to occur: 1. The first year, the period of adjustment: "I didn't realize he or she was like this!" 2. The seventh to tenth years, the period of retrospect ("Did I make the right choice?") 3. The twentieth to twenty-fifth years, the period of readjustment (What do we have in common?). The LOVE TRIANGLE offers the solution for all these stages, for it brings a common bond and communication as well as faith. —REV. J.W.D.

DEAR HELEN:

We tried group marriage in a commune for a while—and for a while it worked. The children had eight parents, we all loved each other, supposedly. But Utopias aren't for humans. Jealousies, hurt feelings, accusations—and general insecurity (who belongs to whom—and "belonging," we found, is important), broke us up.

Now my wife and I and our two children are back into traditional living. Something better hasn't come along! —KARI.

Workshop features speakers Wednesday

Nine speakers addressed the Rural Life Conference Workshop at the Red River Vocational-Technical School Wednesday.

The main speaker L.J. Washington, assistance administrator of the Farmers Home Administration and the Equal Employment Opportunity.

Other speakers were Adalpus Hinton of the Model Cities program L.L. Hidman of the Southwest Arkansas Development Council; Calvin Caldwell of the Agricultural Extension Service; Ricky Poindexter of "Operation Mainstream"; L.A. Smith of the Soil Conservation Service; Royce Pendergrass of the V-T school; Carl Ingram of the FHA; and S.J. Parker of Arkansas AM&N College.

BOARD REQUESTS RULING

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Banking Board voted Thursday to ask for an attorney general's opinion on whether it may allow automatic interest rates on time and savings deposits.

C. Joseph Girior Jr., attorney for Worthen Bank & Trust Co., said the present 20-day procedure for changing rates could amount to a loss of up to $10 million for Arkansas institutions when federal rates change.

The board is considering adopting a sliding rate based on the maximum prescribed by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Current board policy provides for a 20-day notice and a hearing on a rate change.

Andretti is favorite

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Mario Andretti, race driver extraordinary, has been commuting 35 miles daily from his home to Pocono International Raceway for a week. On only one day has the effort been worthwhile.

Andretti, the 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner and five times national driving champ, is one of 43 entries in the July 2 Schaefer 500 mile championship race. He rates high among the favorites to win.

He also is a member of Pocono's board of directors. And he is being blamed for the bad weather that has closed the 2.5 mile tri-oval four of the five scheduled practice days and brought about a change in qualifying schedules.

"Believe me, if I could do anything about the weather by standing on my head, I'd be out there standing on my head," Andretti laughed.

The Pocono area was drenched by more than seven inches of rain from the outer fringes of tropical storm Agnes. The worst of the storm had passed during Thursday night, however, and race officials hoped to get in a full day of practice today.

The track was to open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m., providing the drivers with needed practice time. Some 14 of the drivers had had no time on the course.

Andretti is driving one of three radical new racers entered by Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis winner. Though lacking in speed, the cars proved their reliability at Indy last month, when Al Unser came in second, Joe Leonard third and Andretti eighth.

'Body English'

Mitch LaGrone uses a little "body English" to help the ball drop into the cup on the sixth green at the Hope Country Club course during a practice round yesterday. LaGrone will be paired with Arkansas University Razorback football star Bill Montgomery in the annual Hope Invitational Four-Ball Tournament here this weekend.

Astros are back in first place with Red victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Astros don't need reminders about the last time they faced the Cincinnati Reds. It was late May in Houston, and the Reds stormed to four straight wins by the unkind margins of 8-3, 9-5, 12-4 and 10-3.

Thursday night the Astros returned the favor.

They struck for six runs in the third inning, three on a home run by Doug Rader, and rolled to a 9-5 victory over the Reds.

The win moved Houston back into first place in the National League West, one-half game ahead of Cincinnati.

In the only other major league game played Thursday, Chicago trimmed Milwaukee 5-2 to climb within 3½ games of first place Oakland in the American League West Division.

St. Louis' National League contest at New York was rained out, as was the New York Yankees American League game at Cleveland.

"That other series (in Houston) is history now," professed Houston manager Harry Walker. "The last time we just happened to catch them when they were hot as a firecracker."

Which is exactly what the Astros were Thursday night.

Houston scored two runs in the first, but the Reds went ahead with a single run in the bottom half and a pair in the second inning.

Houston exploded in the third, however, turning three singles, a walk, an error and Rader's 11th homer into six runs with none out.

Cesar Cedeño, Houston's 21-year-old center fielder from the Dominican Republic, went four-for-four and scored three runs, and drew praise from Walker as "the most exciting young ball player I've ever seen."

George Culver, 2-0, took the win for Houston, going 5 2-3 innings after relieving starter Dave Roberts in the second. Wayne Simpson, 4-2, took the loss.

Stan Bahnsen earned his 10th victory of the season for the White Sox with late help from Cy Acosta. Reserve catcher Tom Egan, batting only .175, drove home two of the Sox runs with a pair of singles. Johnny Briggs homered for the Brewers.

The victory left the White Sox with an 11-18 record on the road compared to 24-4 at home. The difference doesn't disturb Manager Chuck Tanner.

"I just don't put any stock in that stuff. It's the total record that counts."

Deadline set for decision

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A decision is expected in three or four months from the National Labor Relations Board on a complaint filed by the National Football League Players Association charging NFL owners with refusal to bargain over artificial turf and player fines.

NLRB Examiner Melvin Wees heard closing arguments Thursday and then set a deadline of July 27 for the filing of briefs by both sides. An NLRB spokesman said it usually takes three or four months for a decision to be made.

Earlier, Welles had rejected the owners' argument that because artificial turf is so closely related to scheduling and other aspects of stadium ownership, it is not a mandatory subject for negotiations.

There are serious problems in the bargaining process on certain issues, this does not mean the issues are not bargainable.

Welles said whether or not artificial turf or automatic fines are good or bad is not the issue. The issue, he pointed out, is whether they are subject to bargaining.

Theodore Kheel, counsel for the owners, also offered to show films of last season's on-field fights in support of a claim that the automatic fine rule against players leaving the bench during a fight is "essential" for the well-being of professional football.

Welles said the correctness of the need for the rule is irrelevant to the issue of whether the rule is a proper subject for collective bargaining. He refused to view the films.

Tourney title up for grabs

More than 125 golfers are slated to tee off tomorrow in the sixth annual Hope Invitational Four-Ball Tournament at the Hope Country Club. Sixty-four two-man teams will begin teeing off at 8:30 tomorrow morning.

The 36-hole tournament—18 on Saturday and 18 on Sunday—will be played on the 6,600-yard Country Club course and a throng of spectators is expected to witness flight matches on Sunday.

Reed Mobley and Paul Collum, both of Texarkana, are defending champions. The pair went into the clubhouse at 133, seven under par, in last year's competition.

Leading contenders appear to be the team of Mitch LaGrone and Bill Montgomery, the University of Arkansas football star, Al Groves and Joe Shinn, the 1970 winners. Bill Hairr and John Graves, and David Waddle, formerly of Hope and his partner Tom Clark both of Texarkana.

First prize in the tournament are sets of woods; a golf bag for each player is the second prize; and third prize is a dozen golf balls.

The "teaser" prize is a 1972 Buick Skylark, to be presented by the Citizens National Bank and James Motor Company to the first player to make a hole-in-one on No. 7. Also on the list of prizes is a mens' blazer from the Colony Shoppe, which will be presented to the player closest to the pin on No. 7 and 16 (Sunday only).

Following Saturday's action, a shrimp boil and dance will be held in the clubhouse. About 350 persons are expected to attend.

Sikes conquers winds to lead Western Open

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — R.H. Sikes, exploiting a pair of ancient clubs donated by old Dutch Harrison, and Jim Jamieson, still a tour non-winner led the free-for-all $150,000 Western Open Golf Tournament into the second round today.

Sikes, whose last triumph was in the 1966 Cleveland Open, and Jamieson, at the peak of a modest five-season pro career, conquered a chilling north wind gusting up to 30 miles per hour for three-under-par 68s at the Sunset Ridge Country Club Thursday.

Defending champion Bruce Crampton, five strokes off the pace with 73 in the comparatively starless chase for the $30,000 top prize, conceded that "the fellows who shot under 70 did a super job."

That included only three other entries—Steve Opperman, Hale Irwin and Tom Weiskopf—all deadlocked at 69.

A quartet of 70 shooters over the par-71, 6,716-yard Sunset Ridge layout included Charles Coody, Jim Wiechers, Dave Graham and Bob Barbarossa. Doug Sanders, J.C. Snead and Lee Elder were among seven grouped at even par 71.

Sikes, breaking out doldrums that won him "only a couple of thousand dollars" this year, came up with a 35-33 round with the best putting of a pro career that started after his back-to-back triumphs in the National Public Links meets of 1961 and 1962.

"I visited Dutch Harrison at St. Louis last week and he helped me tremendously, especially with my driving," said Sikes. "He gave me one of his putters and a driver, both about 25 years old, and this is what happened."

Sikes played the entire first nine without a par, carding four birdies, three bogeys and a double bogey. But, starting with the seventh hole, he tapped in two 20-foot putts and one of 15 for birdies. Then, he started his final nine with birdie puts of 15-feet and one foot, and on the 13th hole, sank a birdie 40-footer.

Jamieson, who captured headlines earlier this year with a surprise challenge in the Masters before finishing fifth, coaxed a 31-37 against the chilling gale.

Jamieson played the back nine first, stumbling for three bogeys, but he recouped by playing the first five holes of the front nine in five under par, including an eagle three on the 507-yard fourth.

Bad weather mars yachting race

LONDON (AP) — The all-steel ketch, British Steel, sailed by Briton Brian Cooke today was reported leading in the single-handed Transatlantic race while bad weather continued to take its toll of competitors.

The Observer newspaper of London, which is sponsoring the race to Newport, R.I., reported one French yacht may be breaking up.

A spokesman said Jean-Marie

Vidal was having problems in the Bay of Biscay with his 53-foot Trimaran ketch Cap 33. Difficulties centered on the beam lashing the subsidiary hull to the main hull.

A freighter reported the 22-foot Czech Ywl Nike, piloted by Richard Konkolski, apparently heading back to land with a broken mast.

Another French competitor, 62-year-old Yves Olivaux in the sloop Aloa 1, was sailing on despite a suspected broken arm.

Fan voting passes half-million mark

NEW YORK (AP) — First baseman Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox continued to set the pace in the balloting for the American League All-Star baseball team today.

With the fan voting passing the half-million mark in returns, Allen remained comfortably ahead of Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers, 189,071 to 130,358.

Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles was runner-up in the voting, outdistancing Bill Melton of the White Sox for the starting third-base position. He was named on 182,319 ballots while Melton collected 52,797 votes.

Reggie Jackson of the Oakland Athletics was the top vote-getter among the outfielders with 149,965. He was followed by Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox with 99,233 and 89,265 votes, respectively.

Yastrzemski overhauled Lou Piniella of the Kansas City Royals, who fell to fourth at 77,450. Carlos May of the White Sox and Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins rounded out the top six.

Rod Carew of the Twins dominated the balloting at second base with 137,318 votes, enjoying a sizeable lead over Cookie Rojas of the Royals, a distant runner-up at 61,392.

The fan balloting will be completed July 15 with the starting teams named three days later.

Rams sale is in negotiation stage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A three-way transaction in which owner Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts would wind up with the Los Angeles Rams reportedly is in the negotiation stage.

Rams President Bill Barnes confirmed Thursday that he has discussed sale for the Rams "for over a year" with Rosenbloom.

He did not want to comment on the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner report of negotiations toward a bizarre athletic franchise transaction as ever consummated.

Robert Irsay of Skokie, Ill., president of a heating and air conditioning firm, would buy the Rams, then exchange franchises with Rosenbloom.

Rosenbloom and Irsay could not be reached for comment.

"It's all very complicated," said Barnes. "There are so many angles ... depreciation and recapture of depreciation.

1st Nat'l wins 14-7

In Babe Ruth League action last night at Legion Field First National won over Anderson-Frazier by a score of 14 to 7 in the first game of the night, and Citizens was the winner over Blevins, 14 to 3.

Ricky Fawcett and Dave Bramlett were the pitchers for the winners in the first game, allowing three hits and striking out one. Mike Butler, Larry Huff, and Charles Harris were the pitchers for the losers. The leading hitter was Larry Johnson with a grand-slam inside the park.

The second game Jim Rhodes was on the mound for the winners. He allowed six hits. John Yates and Tim Gregory were the pitchers for the losers. Hitters were Larry Banks with two for three times at bat.

Friday night games will be First National vs Merchants at 6:30 and Anderson-Frazier taking on Corn Belt in the second game.

Cards upset Cubs 6-3

In Thursday night Doctor's League action, the Cards upset the Cubs by a score of 6 to 3 in the first game of the night. The Yankees outlasted the Braves 10 to 9 and the Giants squeezed past the Dodgers 7 to 6.

The Cards victory gave the Cubs their first loss of the year. The winning pitcher was Smith with seven strike-outs and allowing one hit. On the mound for the Cubs was Jackson.

The Yankees saved off the Braves last inning surge to take the win. Winning Pitcher was Ortigo, relieving Sutton in the second inning. The Braves pitcher was Leim.

The Giants scored four runs in the bottom of the fifth to beat the Dodgers. Martin was given credit for the win with 14 strike-outs while allowing two hits. Morrison toed the rubber for the losers.

Thursday night, June 29, action, action will continue with the 6 p.m. game between the Giants and Braves - Yankees vs Cubs in the second game for the showdown for first place - and at 8:30 the Dodgers takes on the Cards.

The standings are:

Semifinals begin today

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Defending champion Dot Germain moved into today's semifinals in the women's state amateur golf tournament by beating Jan Latimer 3 and 2 in Thursday's round at Pleasant Valley Country Club at Little Rock.

All kinds of things have to be worked out."

Barnes said "there have just been too many stories on plans to sell the Rams. It makes it very difficult to run the club and serve as executor of the estate."

The Rams have been for sale more than a year, and Barnes, as executor of the Daniel Reeves estate which owns 51 per cent of the stock, has been mulling over other offers.

Carlos Romer, a Santa Monica, Calif., businessman, has offered $16 million and Hugh Culverhouse, a Jacksonville, Fla., tax attorney, reportedly came West to submit a bid.

Reeves, who died of cancer on April 15, 1971, was said to have rejected a $20-million offer.

The Rams will be sold once a satisfactory arrangement is made. Barnes says, but he's not saying how much money would be involved

Texas team leads collegiate golf

CAPE CORAL, Fla. (AP) — Texas sophomore Ben Crenshaw is probably the most explosive collegiate golfer since Jack Nicklaus came out of Ohio State in 1961.

But, he's not ready to challenge the Golden Bear.

"Every time I tee it up with Nicklaus and the other great pros," says the 20-year-old from Austin. "I realize I'm not quite in their league just yet."

Ben, however, does pretty well in his own league.

Crenshaw eagled two of the first three holes Thursday and shot a six-under-par 66 in the NCAA Golf Championships as his Texas team rolled to a 14-stroke lead after 36 holes of the major college event.

Crenshaw won last year's NCAA individual title with a record 273 and answers a firm "Yep" when asked if it's possible to capture four straight championships.

"I've got plenty of incentive to win back-to-back, even I have to beat my old buddy," said Crenshaw, slapping Longhorn teammate Tom Kite on the knee.

Kite commanded the NCAA tournament through the first half, shooting rounds of 65-68 for an 11-under-par 133 total on the wind-blown Cape Coral Country Club course.

Letters To The Editor

This your newspaper. Write to it. Address letters to: Editor The Star, P.O. Box 648, Hope, Ark. 71801.

All letters must be signed, with address so you are identified to the newspaper staff, but if the character of the letter permits we will allow use of a pen-name in the publication, in case you should add "Citizen," or some other word below your real name and address.

Pen-names are permitted when a letter deals only with issues. Direct attacks upon public officials, however, must bear the writer's name for publication.

Reply To Editorial

Editor The Star: This letter is in reference to your "Daily Bread" editorial, June 20, 1972, entitled, "Real Culprit in Inflation Is Government". The editorial states as a matter of fact, that the federal employee receives automatic pay increases each year. Quote: "In short, individual workers get automatic pay increases from year to year simply because they are working for the government—a preferred status that is denied those who are working for taxpayers' outfits". These statements are not factual.

The following is a summary of how most government agencies pay their employees. (Anyone may confirm this by calling the United States Civil Service Commission, Dallas, Texas: AC-214-749-3156)

For most positions, the rate of pay is fixed in accordance with the salary schedule of the Classification Act. All positions established under the General Schedule classification system must be described and classified in order that the proper basic rates of pay for the positions may be determined. Hence the term GS rating. This being done the GS ratings start at grade one ($4564.00 per annum) and continue to grade eighteen ($

Skin pigment disturbs reader

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 53 years old, a black woman of light-brown complexion. For quite a few years now, my skin has been turning very dark-brown. It started with the old-fashioned liver spots, but has spread until now it covers the greatest area of my face. I do not have this darkening of the skin on any other part of my body. My doctor says it is no disease as long as there are no bumps or erosions, but it seems to be continuously spreading. When I use a good make-up, it is hardly noticeable, but nevertheless it is still there and looks just awful without make-up. Is there any way of stopping this or do you feel I need treatment?

Dear Reader—Skin color, black, brown or white and shades of them, is basically dependent upon how much melanin pigment is produced by pigment cells in the skin. There are about the same number of these pigment-producing cells in everybody's skin, but some of them produce more pigment than others.

Your doctor is probably right in saying that you don't have any disease, if all that you have is a change in pigment of the skin. There are a lot of reasons for such pigment changes. Most of them are relatively harmless. In a young woman who might be taking birth control pills, this type of response can sometimes occur, producing increased pigmented spots on the face. It also occurs sometimes during pregnancy and in other people it occurs with advancing years. Exposure to sun seems to enhance pigmentation.

The best thing I can suggest is to use sun-screen type cosmetic spread over the area of increased pigmentation when you are out in the sun. This will help keep the sun's rays from activating the cells to produce more pigment in that area. I know this is a certain amount of bother, but the more you protect these areas in the sun the less pigment tation they will develop. But I would like to relieve your mind by telling you that these types of changes are not an indication of poor health or skin disease.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 42 years old and eat radishes by the bunches. Someone told me they can be very harmful. Is this true?

Dear Reader—Nonsense. Some people with digestive problems have difficulty with radishes, onions and similar foods, but otherwise there is nothing to it. Enjoy your radishes. They are a lot better for you than a gallon of coffee a day or all the sweets a lot of people eat. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

PERSONAL FINANCE

By CARLTON SMITH

Figures showing that the typical family's living expenses increased more than 20 per cent over a four-year period may help to answer the budgeter's eternal plaint: "Where does the money go?"

To most consumers, such measures of living costs as the Consumer Price Index probably are too abstract to have much impact—but the dollar-and-cent figures for family budgets should give you a jolt. Latest calculations of the Bureau of Labor statistics — lagging six months behind today's costs — show:

Budget for an urban family of four, at an "intermediate" living standard—$10,971. That's up from $9,076 four-and-a-half years earlier, a 20 per cent rise.

For a higher standard of living, $15,905 needed, compared to the earlier figure of $13,050—up 22 per cent.

The bureau's "lower level" budget was up 22 per cent, rising from $5,915 to $7,214.

Many families will find that, at midyear 1972, they'll have to spend even more to maintain the same standard of living. For one thing, these are national averages. As the National Consumer Finance Association points out, "equivalent budget levels varied widely among cities and regions, with the lowest in small cities in the South, and the highest generally in the largest metropolitan areas." So if you're not lucky enough to live in a small southern city, mark up your living costs by X per cent.

In addition, we've had half a year of inflation since these figures were compiled. The news about food prices, released by the Labor Department earlier this month, indicates that inflation is alive and—should we say "well?"—despite frequent official announcements that inflation is on its death bed.

Wholesale prices of farm products, processed foods and feed took a jump of 0.8 per cent (seasonally adjusted) in May—an annual rate of 9.6 per cent, a prospect that ought to shake up even the professional optimists.

To put the matter of family costs in context, there have been accompanying gains in personal income, otherwise we'd all be in the poorhouse. But currently, the N.C.F.A. points out, consumers are in the middle of a two-way squeeze. On one side is rising prices, on the other the fact that "taxes have been absorbing increasing proportions of personal income." Even when you get more, you're allowed to keep a smaller share to live on.

To illustrate what the combination of inflation and heavier taxes has done to family living costs in recent years, the N.C.F.A. cites figures of the Conference Board showing that $18,570 is needed today to equal the purchasing power of $10,000 of income in 1949.

During the intervening years, the bite taken out of that income by federal income and Social Security taxes increased by $2,100. At the same time, inflation cut purchasing power by $6,470. Thus, $10,000=$18,570, and you can add to the latter figure whatever state and local taxes you pay. They're so variable that the Conference Board left them out of account

"Charity begins at home," murmured East. "Why try it at the bridge table?"

South ducked the first heart; won the continuation and led a spade to dummy's nine. East won with the queen and led his last heart.

South won that trick; led his last spade; finessed successfully against West's king; discarded three clubs on the rest of the spades; conceded a trick to the ace of diamonds and made the rest for a very good score of plus 630.

It wasn't a top score since a couple of North players made 11 tricks in a spade contract, but it was a lot better than being set one or two tricks which is what would have happened if West had just thought of playing second hand high and played his king the first time spades were led.

This second hand high play would have held South to just one spade trick provided that East was careful to take his ace of diamonds at the right time. It might even have held him to no spade tricks at all if South had let the king of spades hold and tried a finesse against the queen later on.

While on the subject of charity we might point out that East wasn't as tough with South as he might have been. If East had ducked that first spade (a very tough play) South would not have been able to make more than nine tricks.

A—Bid four hearts. The immediate heart raise makes your hand move up in strength and you don't want to shilly-shally.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of raising you to two hearts, your partner has jumped to three hearts. What do you do now?

'Like a family reunion'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

It was like a family reunion. The offspring of a church returned, the far-spread spawn of a little flock. From mission posts in this country and abroad, they came back to the mountain congregation where it all began.

"We feel it's home," said J. Olin Coleman, an agricultural missionary to Brazil. "We got our encouragement to go into missions here."

He was among a dozen persons who have entered full-time Christian service as a result of the influence of the First Presbyterian Church of Weaverville, N.C., and who returned there to help celebrate its 50th birthday.

To these persons the church is woven into the very pattern of their lives, and the Weaverville story offers a special example of that deeply felt, personal imprint, made through the mutual support of a single congregation.

"I love thy kingdom, Lord," the people sang at the church north of Asheville, N.C.

In neighborly, rural style, they gathered in the "Fellowship Hall" for a big covered-dish supper, its myriad dishes home-cooked by women members, just as men volunteers had once pitched in to build the stone church itself.

"Everything in our lives hinged on the church," recalled Blanche Sayer, a missionary nurse in the Congo (Zaire) from 1939-57, recounting how the pastor arranged to get her in nursing school once she decided on a religious vocation.

"Women in the church and neighbors made the uniforms I needed for training," she related. "But most important was the knowledge of support through prayer by the pastor's family and congregation."

"To God be the glory," commented the Rev. Gordon K. Reeds, now a Greenville, S.C., pastor whose upbringing in the Weaverville church led him into the ministry. "But some to Henry and Nellie, too!"

He referred to the Rev. Dr. Henry B. Dendy, 77, the church's founding pastor, and his wife. "They were the ones who gave me the courage to go on by faith," said Elisabeth C. Smith, a missionary among Indian children in Arizona.

A big cake was cut, honoring the Dendys' 50th wedding anniversary and a scholarship fund set up, initially of $500, for them to pick recipients.

Dr. Dendy, among Southern Presbyterians who in 1942 started the independent, evangelical weekly, the Presbyterian Journal, and who for many years was its editor, recently retired from the pulpit, becoming pastor emeritus.

But his successor grew up in the same congregation. It had nurtured its own pastor, the Rev. David Parks. For an anniversary sermon, he preached on Revelation 3: "They have been faithful."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS
The tomato is technically a fruit but because of its uses it is considered a vegetable. About three-quarters of the U.S. tomato crop is processed into juice, canned tomatoes, catsup, soups and pastes. The World Almanac notes Tomatoes were commonly believed poisonous by American colonists until the early 1800s

BE PARTNERS WITH GOD SUPPORT HIS CHURCH

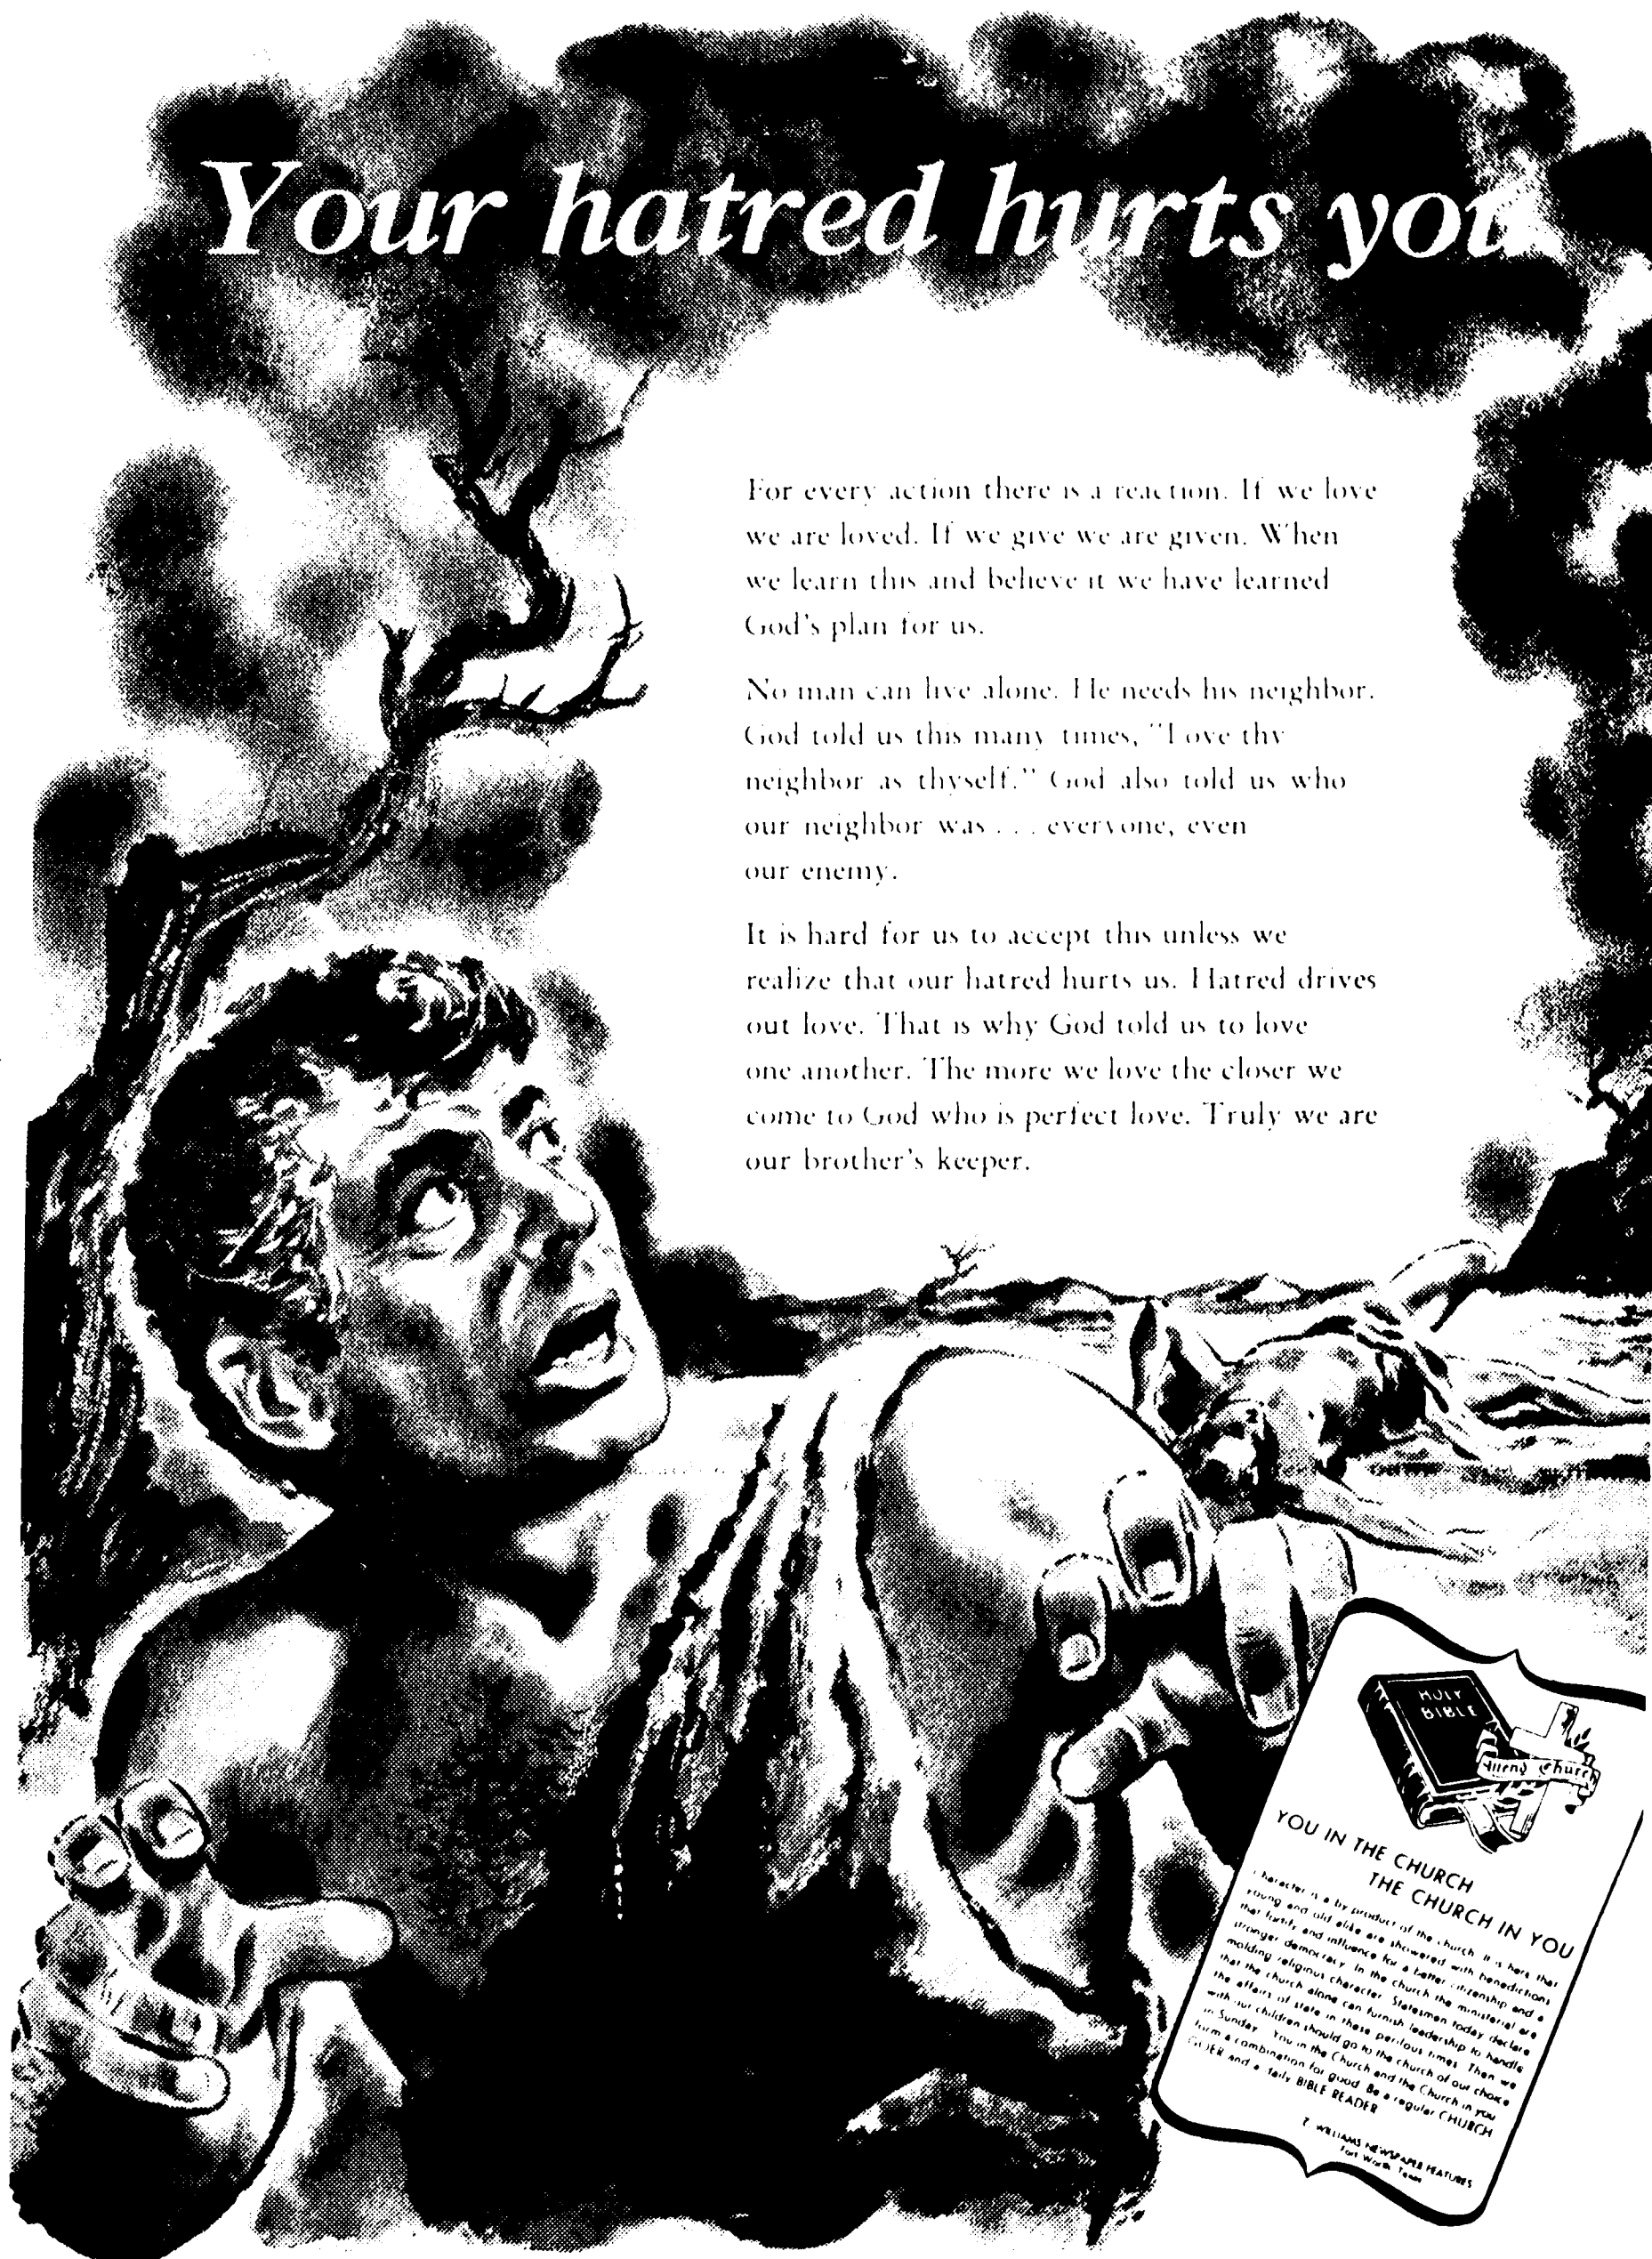

Your hatred hurts you

For every action there is a reaction. If we love we are loved. If we give we are given. When we learn this and believe it we have learned God's plan for us.

No man can live alone. He needs his neighbor. God told us this many times, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." God also told us who our neighbor was... everyone, even our enemy.

It is hard for us to accept this unless we realize that our hatred hurts us. Hatred drives out love. That is why God told us to love one another. The more we love the closer we come to God who is perfect love. Truly we are our brother's keeper.

Agnes stalls in New England, rain continues to pour

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major flood warnings were issued today for the Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers in western Pennsylvania as dike-dammed Agnes stalled in its tracks and pumped more rain on already soaked sections of Pennsylvania and New York.

National Guard units in both states were assisting in the evacuation of thousands from flood-threatened cities, including Harrisburg and Elmira. The confirmed death count in Agnes' wake was 36 with at least a score more missing and feared dead.

"We have a major disaster developing," if the rain continues, National Weather Service hydrologist William Long warned in Pittsburgh. He said the Ohio was rising at the rate of a foot an hour at 4 a.m. and would pass the 25-foot flood stage by midmorning.

Flood warnings were extended for all of western Pennsylvania, where Gov. Milton Shapp declared a state of extreme emergency on Thursday as the torrential storm battered up the Eastern seaboard.

Lashing gale force winds and leaving up to a foot of rain, the still potent remains of Hurricane Agnes forced the evacuation of thousands, including entire towns. Transportation and utilities were crippled from Virginia north to near Albany,

N.Y.

There was no immediate word on when the sprawling, swirling Ohio might crest.

The drenching rain, now in its fourth day, was also causing widespread mudslides in western Pennsylvania. Slides were occurring "faster than we can possibly keep up with them," said a spokesman for the state transportation department.

Massive evacuations were under way in Harrisburg, Wilkes-Barre and Clearfield County. Rivers were overflowing in Philadelphia.

In New York State, Elmira, a city of 40,000, began to evacuate because the Chemung River was rising six inches an hour in the area. Water was reported spilling over 23-foot-high dikes in nearby Corning.

Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson said in New York City Thursday night that losses from the flooding already exceeded several million dollars. He planned a helicopter tour of the stricken areas today.

The National Weather Service said Agnes, which began as a hurricane and later was downgraded to a tropical storm, was being absorbed by a nontropical storm center early today over northeastern Pennsylvania.

Little or no movement of the center was expected for 12 to 24 hours and the service said, "This poses the threat of more or less continuous rains within a radius of several hundred miles from the storm center."

Elmira City Manager Joseph Sartori ordered the start of the evacuation of the city at 3:30 a.m. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller ordered National Guard units to assist.

He also ordered a unit to help at Olean, where the Allegheny River was expected to crest at 23.5 feet at 9 a.m. The city's 21,000 residents were warned to expect the "worst flood ever."

The 8,000 residents of Salamanca were reported encircled by flood waters around the city. Although the rainfall was diminishing in some areas, Pennsylvania officials said the worst of the flooding was yet to come. Rivers, some already 10 feet above flood stage, were to crest tonight.

The evacuation of 5,000 persons from the hardest-hit areas of Harrisburg began at midnight with National Guardsmen using floating personnel carriers and between 50 and 60 trucks.

Police searching for four suspects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police and the FBI here say they are looking for four more persons, said to be members of a Cuban anti-Castro organization, in connection with the attempted bugging of Democratic National headquarters.

A spokesman said the four were registered at the Watergate Hotel from May 26-29, the same time as five other men who allegedly were caught Saturday in the act of trying to place listening devices in party offices, located in the same building.

Police declined to identify the four, who are wanted for questioning, but said they identified themselves at the hotel as members of an organization called Ameretas. Police said this was an anti-Castro exile organization based in Miami.

Other Cuban sources, however, had no information on this group.

PRESENTS PETITIONS—H. A. Spraggins of Hope, at left, director of purchasing for Corn Belt Hatcheries, Inc., presents petitions to Sec. of State Kelly Bryant to place an initiated act on the General Election ballot. Presented at the State Capitol yesterday, the petitions will place an act on the November ballot to repeal Arkansas' Train Crew Laws and will protect present operating railroad employees from loss of employment or reduction of earnings. Spraggins represented Wayne Russell, general manager of Corn Belt Hatcheries, who is a member of the Shippers' Committee, a group of major Arkansas shippers, which has been organized statewide to support the repeal effort.

Nixon gives decision on bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed the $21.3-billion education bill but criticized its antibusing provisions as a congressional "retreat from an urgent call for responsibility."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he'll announce his decision today on whether to sign or veto a $21.3-billion education bill whose antibusing provisions he finds vague and ambiguous.

The chief executive said he faced a dilemma over the legislation and, like an umpire trying to decide a play, it was "a very close call."

The measure, passed by Congress after two years of deliberation, is considered a landmark by the administration, authorizing funds Nixon asked for a variety of programs, ranging from elementary to graduate school.

But the President told a news conference Thursday that the bill's antibusing provision "totally fails to deal with this highly volatile issue."

Congress tacked on a provision that would halt for 18 months any school desegregation ordered by the federal courts until all appeals had been exhausted.

If he vetoed the bill, Nixon said, he doubted he could get the education provisions back on his desk in the form he wants and then get separately a straight-out moratorium on new school-busing orders, which he favors.

Summoning reporters to his Oval Office for an impromptu news conference—his first in three months—Nixon limited questions to domestic policy.

However, he promised to hold another meeting next week and to take questions on any topic.

The President urged approval of the strategic arms limitation agreement, now being debated in Congress, followed by a favorable vote on the offensive-weapons development proposed by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and the administration.

Nixon said Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev made it absolutely clear that his country will continue developing and improving weapons not under the offensive-weapons agreement.

Unless the United States does the same, the President said, there would be no chance the Soviets would negotiate Phase 2 of the arms limitations.

In addition, he said, without U.S. development programs, the Soviet Union would "be substantially ahead of the United States over-all" by the latter part of the 1970s.

On other topics, Nixon said: "He is considering temporarily lifting meat-import quotas in an effort to slow the increase in food prices. Such a move, he said, could bring some moderation in meat prices within a few months."

—He will abide by the Supreme Court ruling requiring court orders for wiretapping in domestic-security cases. He will not seek additional authority from Congress in such cases.

—The Pentagon made "an appropriate decision" in declining to court-martial Air Force Gen. John V. Lavelle, who made unauthorized bombing raids into North Vietnam. Lavelle was relieved of duty, demoted and retired.

—Federal troops are being supplied for the Miami conventions and will be used if requested. But he foresees no violent demonstrations such as occurred at the Democratic convention in Chicago four years ago.

—"The White House has had no involvement whatever" in the break-in at the Democratic National Committee offices in Washington. One of the five men charged in the break-in was, until after the incident, security chief for Nixon's re-election campaign.

—His campaign officials were following the law in declining to make public the source of some $10 million in contributions made prior to the April 7 effective date of a new disclosure law. "If the Congress wanted this law to apply to contributions before the date in April ... it could have made it apply," Nixon said.

Democrats slate telethon to get party out of hock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party, as needy as the next charity case, plans to entertain America in an 18½-hour convention-eve telethon designed to get the party out of hock.

There will be brief, taped appearances by most presidential contenders, including George Wallace who has not always embraced the party establishment. But their spiels won't be allowed to detract from the theme that Democrats have more fun than that other, richer, political party.

If it works, it could do for political parties what the Sunday collection plates do for churches. If it doesn't, the Democrats will be left still searching for ways to pay back $9.3 million put on the cuff in 1968.

Wallace's singing wife will join such entertainers as Andy Williams, Alan King, Shirley MacLaine and Paul Newman in what a press agent—in the exuberance of his trade—calls "an incredible wave of entertainment."

Wallace was won over by John Y. Brown, the man who got rich on Kentucky Fried Chicken and is applying his talents for the Democrats.

"I said, 'Governor, you sent a message to the Democratic party and sent it loud and clear—now we need your money,'" said Brown. "He smiled, and said okay."

The telethon, beginning at 10 p.m. EDT July 8 on at least 155 stations, was Brown's brainchild.

"Part of my motivation is to find some way to change the whole system of political financing, because the whole structure is corruptive," Brown said. "I'd like to think we'll raise enough to get the party out of debt. If we raise $5 million or $6 million it will be a success, because it will be the biggest fund-raising."

To keep the program from becoming a bore, the candidates will be limited to two or three minutes apiece and the money pitches will be in a light vein.

"This is a paid political program for the Democratic party—paid for by the people," is one plug. "No other political party can make that statement."

Another: "If you're up at this hour and can't sleep because you're worried about your oil-depletion allowance—this program is not for you."

Brown, board chairman of the fried-chicken firm, guaranteed the $1.75-million cost of the program to be carried over the American Broadcasting Co. network. He said the finance council already has raised $400,000 and a dinner in Miami Beach, where about one-third of the program will originate, will raise another $300,000 to $500,000.

The bulk of the program will come from Los Angeles and will include a Nashville-taped segment of country-and-western singers.

Harriman sets goal for party

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran diplomat W. Averell Harriman, who says that a prompt political settlement of the Vietnam war is his party's goal, opens a major foreign policy hearing today of the Democratic platform committee.

The one-day New York session conducted by a panel of about 15 platform committeemen winds up the coast-to-coast phase of the public testimony-taking. Drafting of the 1972 platform starts Friday in Washington when the full 150-member platform committee meets.

Harriman's view that President Nixon's dramatic dealings overseas have alienated old allies and undermined confidence in America's reliability already is before the platform writers.

Harriman, former ambassador to the Soviet Union and Britain, and Paul C. Warnke, former assistant secretary of defense, prepared a report for the Democratic Policy Council which charged last month that the secret peace plan which Nixon advertised in his 1968 campaign "remains the best kept secret of his administration."
